

A. Mah-je-ge-shig-o-quay.

Q. Did you know her?

A. Yes, I know them; all of them here.

Q. Was she a full blood?

A. Yes, she was full blood. They were all full-bloods; I will always say that.

Q. You wouldn't say she was a full-blood if she was a mixed blood, would you?

A. I don't know anybody who is a mixed blood. I won't say it ignorantly.

Q. Do you know Charlie Molten?

A. Yes.

Q. Is he a full blood or a mixed blood?

A. I don't know. His mother was an Indian woman. His father was a white man.

Q. Do you know Bay-bah-mansh?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was his father?

A. Ah-sin-e-wah-cumig.

Q. Who was his mother?

A. I don't know the woman; the mother is here, I don't know her.

Q. Did you see the mother?

A. Yes, I used to see her.

Q. Did she look like a mixed blood?

A. No, sir, they were full-bloods.
